St. James's Hotel and Club: Redone and Ready to Reopen

A guest room at the St. James's Hotel

The St. James's Hotel and Club of Mayfair is set to open this September after an extensive renovation led by interior designer Anne Maria Jagdfeld of AMJ Design. Her motto, "no elegance without personality," is fulfilled at the St. James's Hotel and in projects including the China Club in Berlin.

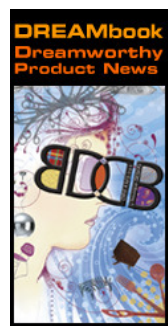

Inside the hotel's Victorian architecture there are 60 rooms conceived in a color palette of "soothing neutrals with a strong period flavor." Combinations of taupe and olive, cream and black and chrome and steely grey are counterbalanced by striking gold, copper and aquamarine. Materials like marble, velvet, silk, leather and cashmere create a sensual experience in the room. The hotel also pays homage to its history as a gentleman's club through a collection of 20th century portraits.

The hotel is operated by the Althoff Hotel Collection, a group that operates six luxury properties in Germany and France.
